ENGLAND HONORS KITCHENER

Enormous Crowds Attend Memorial Services Held at St. Paul's.

(Special to The Herald)

London, June 13.—Enormous crowds flocked to St. Paul's church today where memorial services were held in honor of Lord Kitchener, the secretary of state for war, who lost his life when the British cruiser Hampshire struck a mine in the North Sea, King George, Queen Mary, and Queen Alexandra, as well as diplomatic representatives, attended the service. Ambassador and Mrs. Walter Page represented the United States embassy at the memorial services.

PENETRATED FRENCH TRENCH

But Other German Attacks Were Repulsed.

(Special to The Herald)

Paris, June 13.—Following a violent attack west of Thionville, the Germans were able to penetrate some French trenches east of Hottel 321. It was admitted by the French war office today. The Germans also attacked at other points in the Verdun region, but all were repulsed. The bombardment of Chateauvaut was continued during the night.

FOR INDUSTRIAL GROWTH OF CITY OF PORTSMOUTH

Board of Trade Indorses Movement and Plans of Portsmouth Building Association to Build Manufacturing Plants for Outside Firms

Believing that the city of Portsmouth can grow only as its industries and commercial activities are increased, the Portsmouth Board of Trade went on record at a largely attended and enthusiastic meeting held on Monday at the Rockingham Hotel, to not only indorse all movements for increasing this activity, but to assist and work towards bringing new and large industries into the city. Action was taken which indorses this movement and the sum of at least $10,000 was subscribed with the prospect of this sum growing to a possible $50,000, the money to be used for the erection of manufacturing buildings and other enterprises which will add materially to the growth of the city. Plans now under consideration, but as yet not in detailed form to be divulged, should they materialize, will mean that at least one new manufacturing company will be in operation in Portsmouth within a year and the Board of Trade, if he receives the necessary support of the citizens of the city, will continue this work indefatigably. Practically every member of the board spoke at the meeting in language which assures the city that we are on the eve of a big manufacturing boom and that Portsmouth will soon take her rightful place among the other New England manufacturing cities; New England already being recognized as the

RUSSIANS PUSH ONWARD

Czar's Troops Threaten the Investment of Lemberg.

(Special to The Herald)

Petrograd June 13.—A Russian force pushing onward in Galicia had advanced far enough beyond Demidovna today to threaten the investment of Lemberg, the fortified capital of the province. It is believed here that the Austro-Hungarians have determined to defend the city. Dispatches received today from Bucharest state that the Austrian military authorities have ordered the civilian population to evacuate the town. Semi-official statements emanating from the war office today stated plainly that Lemberg is now the object of the great Russian offensive. The second objective is Kovel, northwest of the captured fortress of Lutsk.

JUDGE PAGE WILL ACT AS TOASTMASTER

It is expected that nearly two hundred members of St. John's Lodge, A. F. and A. M., of Boston will come from that city on Wednesday evening to be the guests of St. John's Lodge of this city. At the post prandial exercises following the banquet in Freeman's hall, Judge Calvin Page will be the toastmaster.

CONDEMNS MILITARISM

President Wilson Addresses Graduating Class at West Point.

(Special to The Herald)

West Point, N. Y., June 13.—Condemning militarism and speaking of the prospects of peace, preparedness and Americanism, President Wilson today addressed the cadets at the Military Academy, graduation exercises. He took a slap at Colonel House when he said: "Never since I was a youngster have I been afraid of a noisy man. I have always feared a still man." In condemning militarism he said: "No one loves a nation with a chip on its shoulder." The cadets applauded vigorously when the President said after he had talked about preparedness: "Mankind is going to know that when America speaks she means what she says."

HAPPENINGS AT CHICAGO

To many the practically unanimous nomination of Charles Evans Hughes was a surprise, but to those on the ground there was absolutely no question about the result after Sunday, June 4. It was a spontaneous demand for harmony, and while neither the "machine" or the Roosevelt followers in the Progressive party wanted Hughes, then it proved that Hughes was the man to unite the party. On Monday I was told by Oscar Straus, George W. Perkins, Clifford Plachet, and Hiram Johnson, "We have nothing against Hughes," and then Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., later confirmed the possibility of a united party. Frank Knox of Manchester and Henry Cabot Lodge also confirmed that Theodore Roosevelt would support the Republican nominee. Hughes will prove the best campaigner that the Republican party has had for years.

The New Hampshire delegation, quartered in a special car, arrived in Boston at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon. Their car was attached to the Massachusetts special, and a right, royal, good time was had on the return trip. The boys all speak in the highest praise of the attention and courtesies shown them by everybody in Chicago. The ladies in the party were entertained by the city of Chicago, and the men were offered free auto rides and other entertainment, which could not be accepted, however, owing to the continuous work of the convention.

The city of Chicago evidently believes in proper police protection. There were at least two officers every two hundred feet on every street in the city. They are courteous men and won the admiration of every stranger in the city. Much has been said about the crooked police in Chicago, but it was the opinion of everyone with whom the writer talked that Chicago has an efficient and courteous set of officers as they have ever met.

Mayor William Hale Thompson (a handsome official), appears to have made many citizens of Chicago envious for some reason or other, and all sorts of knocks are handed out by some. But every delegate, both the men of the Republican and Progressive parties and the women's party, will testify that he is a right royal good fellow, and knows how to entertain and represent Chicago with dignity and ability. He is thoroughly interested in everything that pertains to the welfare of this great city. He certainly made good with the visitors.

With three different conventions in one week calling not less than 50,000 people to Chicago, the great city of the Lakes did not really show any signs that anything unusual was happening. The big hotels, of course, were crowded, but there were other hotels not crowded, and aside from the badges pinned onto the delegates one would not believe that the city was experiencing any jam of visitors. There was room enough for everybody. In many respects Chicago is, without question, the greatest city in the United States. It is greatly improved morally since 1908 and 1912. There was not a case of pickpockets reported during the entire week.

Public spirited citizens of Chicago to the number of two thousand turned over their automobiles for the use of the Mayor's entertainment committee. These cars were used to entertain delegates and alternates and were at their disposal both night and day.

Perry Dow of Manchester, the Prince of Good Fellows, had an interesting experience with the hotels in Chicago. Perry was not entirely satisfied with his reservations at the LaSalle and he phoned to two other hotels for rooms

UNITED STATES FEARS TROUBLE IN MEXICO

Warnings Have Been Received at Washington That Violent Anti-American Outbursts Are Anticipated

(Special to The Herald)

Washington, June 13.—With an avalanche of official reports reaching Washington telling of "the worst Mexican situation we have had yet," officials of both the state and war departments fear that even more troublesome times are not far distant.

Special efforts are being made by the war department to have 1500 additional soldiers already ordered stationed on the Mexican border before Carranza is told officially that American troops will not be withdrawn from Mexico at this time. Warnings have reached the state department that the delivery of President Wilson's note refusing to comply with Carranza's demand, will be a signal for violent anti-American outbursts throughout Mexico.

The grave uneasiness felt in Washington over the Anti-American feelings which he learned he could secure. He chartered a taxi and made a visit to the rooms, but decided they were no better than the ones that had been assigned to him. Imagine his surprise when he was forced to pay $4.00 for the privilege of inspecting these rooms, on the ground that his telephone call made a reservation. Everything was not free in Chicago. The Mayor did his part while others "did the delegates."

Feats of every character and from every section landed in Chicago. There was the individual with the craze to view the big men of the country. He hunted in everywhere. There was the individual who imagined he had the responsibility of the Republican party upon his shoulders. There was the singing freak and the rhetorical freak, the souvenir badge freak, and the man with the free advice. It was really a school for study to simply look about the hotel corridors and public places.

"Hello Bill," which has for a long ing in Mexico and the admission of lack of co-operation by Carranza troops is reflected along the border in the preparations being made to resist an attack upon American territory. Advice from consuls in towns along the line of General Pershing's communication and from travelers coming from Mexico are to the effect that the de facto forces are now moving toward the section occupied by U. S. troops indicating the possibility of an attack.

Secretary of State Lansing today announced that the condition in Mexico in some places is worse, while in other places it is unchanged and compared to the "dangerous" situation of Monday, at no point had there been a change for the better the secretary said. The communication occurred between Secretary Lansing and Asst. Secretary of War Ingraham today, and an important announcement concerning Mexico was expected.

Five days of rain during the week did not dampen the enthusiasm or interest of the Chicagoans. He was there with the smile and his pleasant word, and when the delegates left they were presented with a souvenir of the city with each of their names embossed and all sorts of invitations to clubs and entertainments. Regardless of the rain everything went off according to program. Chicago is a fine city for a convention or anything else.

SHIP GOES AGROUND

(Special to The Herald)

Archangel, Russia, June 13.—The American ship, Caroline, has gone aground on Kola Peninsula.

Portsmouth should encourage young men to join the militia.

WILL ADOPT PEACE PLANK

Democrats Hope For Early Cessation of European War.

(Special to The Herald)

St. Louis, June 13.—Hope for early cessation of the European war and for the restoration of world peace will be set forth in the Democratic platform to be adopted by the convention which meets on Wednesday. The peace plank will be added to the foreign relations declaration, the draft of which was written by President Wilson was made public on Monday exclusively by the N. Y. Times. The suggestion that European peace be prayed for in the platform comes directly from President Wilson and it will probably be acceded to by the resolutions committee which has the final word in framing the platform.

AIMED AT CHAS. E. HUGHES

Proposed to Amend Constitution to Prohibit Election of Justices to Office.

(Special to The Herald)

Washington, June 13.—Senator Thomas, Democrat, of Colorado, in the senate today filed a broadside at Justice Hughes' candidacy for the Presidency by introducing a resolution proposing an amendment to the federal constitution to prohibit the election of supreme court justices to office.

U. S. S. TERRY BADLY DAMAGED

Whole Side of Vessel Torn Open When It Ran Aground.

(Special to The Herald)

Washington, June 13.—Rear Admiral Caperton at Santo Domingo City today reported to the navy department that the destroyer Terry, which ran aground at Puerto Plata, Santo Domingo, was so badly damaged that she will have to be taken in charge by a wrecking crew. One whole side of the vessel was torn open.

ORDERS ISSUED TO GUARDSMEN

Unusual Program of Summer
Instructions for State
Troops.

Concord, June 12.—The annual tour of duty for the several branches of the New Hampshire National Guard have been decided upon by the Adjutant General, Charles W. Howard, and will be considerably different and more comprehensive than in previous years.

It had been planned to have the Battery A field artillery go to Tobhanna, Pa., to join with the regular establishment in maneuvers, but owing to the call of troops for duty on the border and in Mexico, the establishment there was so far depleted that there were not sufficient officers left at that concentration point to give the necessary instruction. Consequently the tour was abandoned and the Battery A. will join in the state maneuvers as in years past.

The machine gun company of Franklin and the Troop A cavalry will have experience and instruction with the regulars. The machine gun company will go to Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., from July 5 to 22 and Troop A. Cavalry will join in the maneuvers at Worcester, Mass., from August 5 to 11.

The First Infantry, Co. A, Signal corps and attached sanitary troops will mobilize in this city at the state camp grounds on Monday morning, July 17 and will start from that point for the annual practice marches and accompanying camp instructions. The route of the hike has not yet been definitely decided upon. It is also understood that the maneuvers will not be devoted so extensively to hiking as to a camp of instruction at some point far enough remote from any business center to permit the best military results being attained without the attendant influence of a large crowd such as present themselves when the men are encamped in or near this or any other city.

The battalion of coast artillery will have its camp of instruction at Fort Constitution beginning on the morning of September 13 and continuing until the evening of September 20. The attached sanitary troops will accompany the corps.

Prior to the camp the officers and non-commissioned officers of the branch of the service will be assembled at the fort on September 6 for the following four days, and in the course of that time the course of instruction will be carried out on the subjects directly applying to that arm, in a similar manner as that prescribed for the infantry.

Plans have also been tentatively made for the annual summer state rifle competition to be held at the rifle range at Massachusetts. This will be held from August 21 to August 26 and will be participated in by every organization carrying the rifle and will be over the course demanded for qualification. At this time the best shots of the organized militia will be determined, and from this record, a later announced number will be ordered into another competition, from which the state team will be chosen to represent the state at the national shoot to be held at Jacksonville, Fla., beginning October 20.

KITTERY POINT

A rehearsal was held on Monday evening with Mrs. George Kimball for the drama entitled, "Those Husband of Ours," which will be repeated at North Kittery on Thursday.

WITH THE LOCAL SPORTS

The Portsmouth boxing fans are going to have an opportunity of seeing "the fighting Chink," Harry Ah Ching, of Salem, Mass., in action again at the next meeting of the Rockingham A. C. on June 21; only one week from tomorrow. Harry made a great impression on his last two visits here and is reported to be in fine shape for another mill. Matchmaker Dow of the club has matched "the Salem boy" against Tommy West of Manchester and they are scheduled for eight rounds. West is no dead one by a long shot and the bout should produce some little enthusiasm before the final bell is sounded.

In the main bout Joe Startz of the U. S. S. Montana will be seen against Dave Powers of Malden, Mass., in a ten round affair. If the sailor scrapper keeps up to his past performances Dave of Malden is going to realize about the end of the seventh that he is not boxing with any man and it will be up to him to work and work hard to get a decision over the seaman. Startz put up a game battle against Eddie Flynn and was given a draw by the referee. Flynn was much lighter than Startz but Powers is a boy nearer his own weight and should make a closer fight, although the mill can't be very much more interesting than the Flynn-Startz go, no matter how good it is. Powers is a good, hard, fast, two-handed scrapper and has had occasion of experience with toughness and knows how to give battle to all kinds of fighters.

For the prelims a couple of little champions are booked, in Henry Lewis of New Hampshire and Steve Travers of Hallowell, Me. These youngsters each claim the 115 pound championship of their respective states and few have had the nerve to dispute the claims, none successfully. Lewis and Travers are matched for six rounds and the little bantams are looked for to create some real excitement. A win for either man means a great deal to him, and both are going after that win.

With the return of the sun to his regular job of radiating heat and light it is now expected that the Sunset League can take another lease of life and get into action again this evening. A game was scheduled for yesterday but the directors considered that base ball was a game to be played on the land rather than a submarine sport, so it was called off. If the sun continues at its regular occupation all through today and some little breeze also gets on the job, the diamond should be in pretty fair condition for the Consolidated Coal Company-P. A. C. game this evening. Here will be a real test of the U. C. C. staying qualities as the P. A. C. are now going along at a steady stride and some fast ball is looked for. Should the Athletic Club succeed in breaking the winning streak of Walter Woods' undefeated team they will have to be considered more than ever as possible winners of another pennant. It will be an important game and although a defeat for the U. C. C. will not pull them from the top of the standing, it will give them a break in their percentage that nothing can replace as the 1,000 mark, once lost, is lost forever.

CLASS DAY HELD AT TILTON

Class Will Read by Charles E. Brackett of This City.

Tilton, June 12.—The class day exercises at Tilton seminary were held Monday morning in Seminary hall, instead of on the campus, owing to the disagreeable weather.

Charles M. Robinson of Stoneham, Mass., president of the class, opened the exercises with a brief, appropriate speech of welcome to parents, teachers and friends. The class orator, Alfred C. Blake of Meredith, spoke on Tilton Seminary's part in the movement for preparedness. After reviewing the international situation, the Swiss method of training citizens for war, and the success of a similar experiment in Wyoming, he urged the introduction of military drill at Tilton Seminary. Miss Grace M. Harriet of Melrose, Mass., the class poet, put in rhyme the hopes and inspiration of the class on this day. The charm was increased by the manner in which the poem was read.

After the brief history by Mildred Perry Prescott of Auburn, had done justice to the serious events of the past four years, the program was given to humorous parts recalling the follies of the students and amusing events of the course. Lillian B. Greene of Sandwich and Clayton N. Thompson of Tilton gave the class prophecies by telling of a visit to a moving picture entertainment many years from now. Edith E. Ordway of Canterbury in his address to undergraduates kept his audience laughing by his good natured irony. The surprise of the day came with the presentation by Miss Edna R. Greene of Alstead. At a given signal she had two pixies dressed in red, appear drawing a small wagon decorated in the class colors. They proved to be Morton Richard and Arthur Smart, who carried to each member of the class an appropriate present, selected and explained by Miss Greene. She herself was given a souvenir by the class president. The will, by Charles E. Brackett of Portsmouth, was different from most class wills because of the many individuals mentioned. The morning closed with the singing of the class song by Miss Barrett.

SOUGHT TO PREVENT BURIAL

Wife of Dead Keene Man Is Taken Suddenly Insane.

Keene, N. H., June 12.—A peculiar incident arose today at the funeral of Frank E. Washburn when his wife refused to let the body be taken from the house, after the services conducted by Beaver Brook Lodge of Odd Fellows. Mrs. Washburn would not allow a minister to enter the house.

After the services Mrs. Washburn threatened to kill the undertaker Harry N. Aldrich and any one who attempted to remove the body, saying: "Mr. Washburn owns this house and he will stay here." Mrs. Washburn also threatened relatives and they left the house in haste as did the others.

Officers Gibbs and Swangstrom went to the Washburn home this afternoon and took Mrs. Washburn to the police station. She was committed last night to the insane hospital at Concord, where she has once before been a patient.

When Mr. Washburn died at Dublin last Thursday, Mrs. Lower, a neighbor was asked to tell Mrs. Washburn, and after completing her message, Mrs. Washburn said: "If Mr. Washburn is dead you killed him," and making threats started after Mrs. Lower, who fled from the house.

GREENVILLE TO HAVE MUNICIPAL DOCK

Greenville, Miss., June 13.—Business men of Greenville have begun a movement to construct a modern municipal dock, where steamboats may load and unload their cargo. The dock will mean the passing of the river roustabout, the negro with shining black face, white teeth, rolling eyes and a frame like a mule. Mechanical loading and unloading devices will be installed, if present plans materialize, and railroad trucks will be extended to the levee. The dock will be so constructed that boats may land against it at all stages of the river.

TRADE COMMISSION HEARS GASOLINE PRODUCERS' CASE

Washington, June 12.—Representatives of oil interests, including refiners, jobbers, pipe line companies, and cruds oil producing concerns today presented to the Federal Trade Commission, at an informal hearing, their version of the causes for the soaring price of gasoline.

The oil producers generally defend the high price of the product as a nature condition growing out of the greatly increased consumption, prospects of diminishing supply and the much heavier production cost.

Commissioner Harris having special charge of the inquiry, announced that the hearing was "informal and private" and primarily for the purpose of giving the oil men opportunity to explain the advance in price, and for the purpose of aiding the commission in reaching conclusions upon the mass of data already collected and tabulated.

The commission today was particularly interested in its examination of witnesses to obtain from those who spoke with authority in the marketing and operating branches of the business, testimony upon company estimates of increased production cost with comparisons of increase in the quotation price.

Statements were also submitted bearing upon competitive conditions in the petroleum industry, especially in regard to gasoline. The commission announced today that a full report would be transmitted to congress within a few days.

DEMOCRATS ARE AFTER THE BULL MOOSE VOTE

Leaders Scheme to Kidnap Progressive Party as They See Chance to Gather in Large Part of the 4,000,000 Votes for Wilson

St. Louis, June 12.—One of the greatest kidnapping enterprises in history was discovered in St. Louis today. The object of the effort is a 4-year-old child—the Progressive party. Democratic organization leaders are the would-be kidnapers.

Events in Chicago and Oyster Bay Saturday have changed the color of this week's convention, and instead of being a perfunctory ratification meeting it may turn out to be a truly thrilling affair. Quiet conferences among Democratic committeemen Sunday and Sunday night resulted in a determination on a new program.

Theodore Roosevelt's refusal to run—reiterated yesterday—inspired the kidnapping plan. It is the opinion of Democratic committeemen that Roosevelt's action spells the death of the Progressive party.

The committeemen will bend every effort toward gathering in the four million Progressive voters. They have counselled with Washington by wire in the brief time the plan has been forming and the White House is said to be prepared to back the effort.

Swift developments since Saturday may have a market bearing on the Democratic platform, although one of the men busiest on the kidnapping scheme, declared today the platform on which Senator Stone and President Wilson have been working probably will serve the desired purpose.

Various leaders were evasive when asked about it today. National Chairman McComb said to be the actual originator, tacitly admitted he was working with others to bring it to a head.

"Somebody must adopt the child," they said smiling, and added—"all four million of it."

Asked point blank if overtures to Progressive leaders were proposed he refused to discuss the matter further. He maintained the same attitude concerning any steps that may have been taken by him in this connection while in Chicago. Others said, however, that the fact Roosevelt would abandon his leadership of the Progressive party was not known in Chicago when McComb left there Friday, made it altogether unlikely the Democratic chair man had talked with the Moose leaders on the subject.

The definite admission was made by one Democratic leader that certain Progressive leaders were expected in St. Louis in a few days. He would not admit, however, that they had been invited.

Col. Robert Ewing, Louisiana member of the national committee, on this point, said:

"We'd like to have them all here. The treatment received by the loyal Progressive workers at Chicago constitutes one of the crimes of American politics. In my opinion, take fellows like Victor Mordock for example, who were left out of the Republican party by Roosevelt, only to be left high and dry when Roosevelt found there was no personal success in it for him. Mordock's political career may be ruined. No one ever questioned Mordock's sincerity and it has been abused shamefully."

"Men like Mordock and William Al-ling White cannot support Justice Hughes. White has declared since Justice Hughes was nominated that Hughes's milk and water statement on 'Americanism' would prevent Progressives supporting him."

Radicals Urging Roosevelt to Continue His Fight.

New York, June 12.—Still full of fight, Theodore Roosevelt radicals of the Progressive party will storm Oyster Bay today in an effort to convince the colonel he should accept the Progressive nomination for President.

Delegates returned from the Chicago convention today said it was still the consensus of opinion of Progressives that T. R. should accept the nomination of the party he fathered and that the party positively would not endorse Hughes.

"The issue in this campaign will be daily Berlin against Washington, with Hughes, the former protagonist, against Wilson," said Solomon Suffrin, a member of the New York Progressive executive committee.

Chairman John J. O'Connell, Commissioner of Charities, Kingsbury, William Halpin, Michael Selapp, Stanley Isaac, Justice William Ransom and Solomon Suffrin, make up the committee which waits on T. R. for his final answer to his party.

Progressive leaders declare the party will not go out of existence should Roosevelt fail to assume the leadership, but "may even vote for the Democratic candidate."

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 12.—Sagamore Hill is politically off the map today, by announcement from Col. Roosevelt.

For the first time since he entered politics, Col. Roosevelt refuses to meet newspaper men "officially." They are welcome as friends.

But before the day is over Sagamore Hill is going to be very decidedly back on the political map. Two pilgrimages to Sagamore Hill today may result in an important political action by T. R. One party of Progressives planned to visit T. R. in an attempt to prevail on him to accept the nomination offered him, either by cajolery or by threats of a party "bolt" to the Democrats.

Another party of pilgrims from the G. O. P. including George W. Wickerman, George B. Cortelyou and William Loch, Jr., will advance to win the colonel over by the support of Hughes.

Although he is still full of the old-time vigor, there are lines in T. R.'s face today which indicate that the G. O. P. dealt him a severe blow on Saturday.

CONFEDERATE DAUGHTERS BOOM DEFENSE PARADE

Birmingham, Ala., June 12.—Birmingham will soon have a preparedness parade such as they have been having in New York, Boston, Chicago and other cities. While all the civic organizations are working in behalf of it, the women, especially the Daughters of the Confederacy, are the most active boosters.

The tentative plans are to celebrate Flag Day with a huge preparedness parade. All the military organizations of the city will participate. Confederate veterans, Grand Army of the Republic, Shriners, Woodmen of the World and all other fraternal organizations, business men, professional men, labor organizations, women and children, will all have a place in the line.

WANTS MAYOR TO FIND HIM A WIFE

Lynn, Mass., June 12.—Mayor Geo. H. Newhall has evidently made a nation-wide reputation as a marriage agent. Following the letter of a week ago he today received a letter from a young man in Chicago asking the mayor's co-operation in getting a winsome young maid or widow for a correspondent. The letter is as follows:

"Chicago, Ill., June 10, 1916. To His Honor, the Mayor of Lynn, Mass.

"Dear Sir:—If there is a winsome young maid or widow of marriageable age, that is from 20 to 30, that would like to correspond with a western bachelor, you can give her my address.

"Yours very truly, (Signed) "EDWARD FLYNN, "4751 No. Clark Street, Chicago."

SWISS PREDICT AUSTRIAN FAILURE

Berne June 12.—The offensive movement of the Austro-Hungarian army against Italy is watched with a great deal of interest by the Swiss military authorities. Competent observers do not believe the drive from the Trentino will be successful.

Col. Teyler, one of the foremost military critics of Europe, writes:

"The Austrian offensive can hardly succeed, although it started with considerable gains. Three facts combine to make it almost surely futile: The extremely difficult, mountainous territory, the great numerical strength of the Italian army and the system of military railroads in northern Italy which enables General Cadorna to shift his forces quickly and throw large reinforcements to any point where they may be needed.

"The vast superiority of the Austro-Hungarian artillery must be conceded, but the fighting cannot be done with the heavy guns alone. No matter how successfully the Italian fortifications on the mountains may be smashed, every peak and plateau must finally be taken by storm and this means enormous losses which the Austrians cannot stand after nearly two years of bloody fighting on all three fronts.

"Even if the army of Archduke Charles Francis Joseph should attain its object and break into the Venetian plain, the position of Italy would not become critical. There is no danger that the Italian army on the Isonzo and in the coast district will be cut off, because it can easily retreat along the coast and even by sea if this should become necessary. To conquer Northern Italy would take the Austrians a year, even under the most favorable circumstances, because the great fortresses of Vicenza, Polesina, Mantua, Piazzeva will have to be taken and they are as strong as any of those of France, with the possible exception of Verdun and Paris.

"All that the Austrians can accomplish by their efforts is to throw a scare into the Italian nation and possibly to exhaust their enemy economically. A decisive military victory of the forces of the Dual Monarchy on the Italian theatre of war seems impossible, unless Austria should conclude a separate peace with Russia, and this is out of the question.

TWO FRENCH '75'S STOP GERMAN ADVANCE

London, June 12.—How two French '75's stopped a German advance under difficult conditions is told here today by H. Warner Allen in a dispatch from the front. He says:

"The Argonne, with all its cover, is a difficult country for artillery, but the French gunners there have accomplished a number of feats of which they may well be proud. There is a point on one of the tree-hidden roads of the forest which is shown to the visitor as the scene of the exploits of a certain artillery lieutenant. It is no distance from the German lines, but on one occasion, when the Crown Prince was hammering away at the French trenches and his infantry had left their cover, this lieutenant brought up two '75's and set them one on either side of the road. There was no time to link up his guns to the front trenches, but, with the aid of a compass and a map, he blazed away at the line where he was convinced the Germans would try to pass. He knew the country well, and scarcely wasted a shell, as efficient were his map and compass. The German advance stopped suddenly, and the next day the French counted 400 bodies in the steep hillside, for the majority of which those '75's had been responsible."

ENORMOUS MAIL GOES TO BRITISH ARMIES

London, June 12.—Speaking at Bromley, Postmaster General Pease said the British Postoffice has sent 150,000,000 letters and 40,000,000 parcels to the troops in France. The average is about 1,500 tons of mail a week. About 800,000 books and magazines are being distributed weekly to British soldiers and sailors. Mr. Pease appealed for more contributions along this line.

NEW HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE NOTES

New Hampshire College, Durham, N. H., June 12.—Commencement exercises began here this morning when the Rev. William H. van Allen of the church of the Advent in Boston preached the baccalaureate sermon. Dr. van Allen's discourse was a call to the service of constructive reform. To help solve the problems of the country is the reason for being men and women of learning he declared.

Other reasons said the speaker are unsound. "There are two false ideals of the learned to be guarded against," he explained. One is old and the other is modern. One is learning for learning's sake and the other education because it pays. This last is selfishness and those who are guided by it are mammon worshippers.

"We are all Americans and we are at peace in the midst of war, but let us not exult. It is a peace from no virtue of our own. It is a false peace in too many ways. How far we are from the ideal state of the plans of our fathers! Our cities are the worst governed in the world, our ships surpass in horror those of Peking or Constantinople and along with this poverty goes in contrast an outrageous luxury.

"Publicists view with real anxiety the urban movement and yet a trip through the country shows deserted farms and a sparse population made up of the degenerate, the old and a few newly arrived foreigners. Over city and country alike is the blight of intemperance, and we find ourselves dictated to by brewers and distillers and saloonkeepers who fatten on the life blood of their victims.

"This war is a warning. Let us set our house in order or we will be set afire of hell. My advice to you is to enter politics, not politics in the sense the word has come to have of something sinister, but politics which means the science of the welfare of the commonwealth."

FARM VALUES CLIMBING IN NEW ENGLAND

Farm values in New England during the past year have increased slightly more than ten per cent, according to the census reports of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The present value of unimproved lands throughout the U. S. averages $45 per acre, which is $5 more than one year ago, and $9 more than four years ago. The increased value per acre in the past ten years over the entire country has been $13, and in the past 20 years more than $30 per acre.

According to the present gain, a New England farm valued at $5000 is earning $600 in increased value annually. Through cover crops, livestock and the building up of the soil with fertilizers and manures great increases in value can be made on the average farm.

More sweet corn and potatoes are being grown in New England for the coming season than ever before, according to the government crop reports for 1916, which show the acreage increases ranging from two and four-tenths in Maine to over ten per cent in Vermont over the preceding year. With favorable market conditions for the coming season, an increase in acreage and production here is expected. Higher prices for sweet corn and potatoes make more profitable the use of fertilizers and manures to secure early maturity and high quality products which command the highest prices. Maine is the leading state in the production of sweet corn with a total of 13,745 acres last year.

What can be done in building up rundown farms in New England is shown by the experiences of C. E. Biddle of Kennebunk, county, Me., who some years ago bought a farm in the suburbs of Waterville for $1000. He has since brought the farm into a high state of cultivation, great gulches have been filled with rocks, with stumps and other refuse. What was originally but poor, rough land is now in profitable culture and the farm is worth $10,000. One thousand apple trees were set out, and are now in bearing. Over 50 tons of hay are raised per year, and a large quantity of vegetables and truck crops are marketed by the owner.

Large quantities of stable manure and commercial fertilizers are used by Mr. Biddle, and there have contributed to bringing about the greatly increased value of the farm.

"That the top dressing of meadows with three hundred pounds of high grade fertilizer is practicable and profitable is shown by the reports of the Windham County Vt. Farmers' Association. An increase of from one and one-half to three tons to the acre in yield was brought about when the fertilizer was applied early when moisture was not lacking and where there was a good stand of grass. Much of the alfalfa land in Windham county yielded three tons dry hay to the acre last year.

With practically every farm bureau in New England conducting alfalfa demonstrations, and with hundreds of practical farmers increasing their acreage each year, and with the support of the agricultural colleges and experiment stations, alfalfa is rapidly becoming an important crop in New England. When the land is well drained and sweet, the soil inoculated and the young plants supplied with sufficient plant food to get a quick start and to maintain a steady growth through the early critical stages the danger of failure with alfalfa is very slight. Stable manure should be applied upon the preceding crop when available, and a liberal amount of fertilizer used at the time of planting, and as top-dressing during the following years.

A field meeting of the New England Alfalfa Growers' Association will be held on Thursday, May 25th, at the Walker-Corban farm, Charles River Village, Mass. Farmers who are interested in alfalfa and who are able to attend the meeting can get in touch with successful New England alfalfa growers and their methods, at this time.

R. I. Copeland, the Maine grower who originated the Early Pearl variety of oats, gives the following four essentials in growing oats profitably: First, pure high-yielding seed; second, a fertile soil; third, good seed bed; fourth, early spring or favorable season. He points out that poor seed is dear at any price.

The land should be plowed in the fall and manure applied and worked in with the harrow. The next spring the land will be in good shape to prepare the seed bed. He advises the use of 600 pounds of high grade fertilizer per acre, drilled in at the time of planting and broadcasted before the last harrowing. The increase in yield and quality will more than pay for the cost of the fertilizer, according to Mr. Copeland. Oats should be planted just as soon as the ground has been worked in the spring.

Mr. George I. Gleason, a Massachusetts farmer who has been devoting his entire acreage to raising hay, gives the following as the result of his thirty-five years experience with stable manure and commercial fertilizers: "I have found that stable manures and commercial fertilizers must be used together to secure the best results. My candid opinion after all of these years of experience, is that crops of all kinds may be doubled on any farm by combining the sources of fertility rather than by using either one of these alone. I have found that farmers must deal liberally with both of these fertilizers. If both have to be purchased in ordinary times, money will go twice as far if rightly expended in commercial fertilizers as in buying stable manure, but both are indispensable to the largest success."

AT THE COLONIAL.

A program of unusual novelty vaudeville acts holds down the boards of the Colonial Theatre for the first three days of this week and each evening act was well received with loud applause at the opening performances given Monday matinee and evening.

An original comedy act fitted with some novelty surprises is that of Hopkins, Astelle & Co. in the twinkling travesty entitled "Traveling," and during the scenes of this act the spectators are taken with them on their travels through the crowded street cars to the comforts of the palace pullman train and the comedy situations that are introduced throughout are interesting and amusing. The Kacey Brothers two musical artists, came in well to second honors in their novelty presentation "Slumming," while the Seabees do a big punching and athletic act that is hard to duplicate when it comes to speed.

KITCHENER'S IDEA BECOMES A FACT.

London, June 12.—A story told here today relates that at the very beginning of the war Lord Kitchener was visiting a certain flying ground in England, watching men fly and listening to what the 'Officer Commanding' had to say.

"You might," said the Secretary for War suddenly, "to learn to fly in regular formation."

The officer replied that that was impossible because machines could neither travel far enough nor stay long enough in the air.

"You will have to do it, all the same," Lord Kitchener said, "before this war is over."

In the opinion of airmen the suggestion was absurd at that time, but it has come true. Both by the British and the French reconnaissance and observation work is now carried out in regular battle formation. Aerial warfare is, in fact, going through all the stages which warfare by sea went through, the development of three months being about equivalent to that of a century in the older service.

Assumed Titles.

The state of Georgia appears determined to keep in the limelight in one way or another. If not a lynching bee, then something else must attract the attention of the country to Georgia.

Just now the issue there, according to a dispatch from Atlanta, concerns the title of colonel. There are many men in the state who earned the title and wear it legitimately, while there are many other "colonels" who have no right to the title at all except as this rests upon common custom, which permits any man to call another colonel if he sees fit, and for the fellow so addressed to accept all the honor that the title implies. But the real colonels have tired of the condition and are protesting. What the outcome will be no one can tell, though it is a safe guess that the men of Georgia will go on "coloneling" one another to their hearts' content.

Here in the North, Kentucky has always been considered the headquarters for colonels, with all that is supposed to accompany the title, especially in the southern country, but it seems that Georgia is full of the "real article," which vigorously objects to the promiscuous use of a title that, if must be admitted, ought to mean something. Hence the effort for "reform."

To northern people this issue will seem highly amusing, and yet the North is not entirely free from the vanity that finds satisfaction in assumed titles. We do not have so many colonels here, but "professors" are very numerous. In fact, it is not much of a man who cannot be a "professor" in this part of the country if he wants to be. He may be a breaker of vicious horses or the curer of corns, but if he assumes the title of professor no one questions it, especially if the assumption is backed up with a "plug" hat and a flaming newspaper advertisement or handbill.

But why should any one worry over these spurious colonels and professors? The public ought to be able to stand it if the wearers of titles that have not been earned can get any satisfaction out of their empty honors. The real colonels and professors have something besides their titles to commend them and should be no more disturbed by the shallow pretenders than they would be by men who happen to wear the same kind of clothes that they do. This is a free country, and if a man wants to be a self-made colonel or professor there is no law to prevent him, and there should be none.

In the words of the immortal Grant, "Let us have peace."

The Nomination of Mr. Hughes.

The nomination of Justice Charles E. Hughes to head the Republican national ticket in the November election was a most happy outcome of the Chicago convention. The strength developed by Mr. Hughes against all the other candidates was an indication that he was the man wanted. He is a citizen of the highest type and will sweep the country. His record as governor, chief justice and in all other capacities has been above criticism. First of all he is a thorough-going American in all that word implies. The members of the National Convention are entitled to much credit for their thorough work. Many members for personal reasons and friendship favored others, but when it came to fulfilling the call of the needs of the hour it was Hughes—the man to unite the party for victory. He will prove to the voters that no mistake has been made.

The men who are going into the training camps this summer will be glad to know that the government has decided to stand the expense with the exception of the cost of the uniforms, which is not large. The cost of a camp course is about $60, and under the present arrangement their time and work is practically all the men will have to put in. Many thousands of men have planned to take military training in the course of the season.

Some of the newspapers are now grouping their lists of Sunday automobile accidents, and the list published last Monday was indeed startling. The chapter of Sunday boating and drowning accidents during the summer season bids fair to be thrown far into the shade by reports from the highways.

A schooner is soon to sail from Boston for the west coast of Africa with a cargo of rum, and it is said that the price paid for the transportation will be several thousand dollars more than the cost of the vessel. There is money in the rum business as well as in the "schooner."

It is claimed that while tuberculosis is decreasing heart disease is increasing. This is a combination of good news and bad news, yet it remains true that the average person would rather have heart disease than the great white plague.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Making Dye-stuffs Under Protection

Consular reports to the department of commerce in Washington indicate that, in order to retain as much of their former business in dye-stuffs as they formerly had in other lands, the largest producing companies in Germany, a group of seven, have come to even closer terms than existed before the war. A variety of causes have brought about agreement unattainable hitherto, not the least of which is such legislation in other countries as will either altogether prohibit purchase of German-made goods or will compel the German producer to clamor over high protective tariff walls when he and his goods arrive where entry is permitted but not encouraged.

Competition is not wholly done away with under the new plan, as reported, that there is a pooling of interests, a sharing of common knowledge, a unity of exporting campaign, and a definitely agreed upon basis of profit taking, according to standards of equity previously agreed upon. The industry is to unite to break down such opposition as it can, and to maintain, so far as it may, the national rank as a dye-producing center, with by-products of incalculable value to the military arm of government.

Evidence, taken by committees of Congress that are responsible for tariff schedules and industrial welfare, has differed substantially on the necessity of a high-protective tariff to enable the manufacturer of dyes in the United States to get and keep the industry going. The weight of opinion seems to have been that something must be done, if after the war the German producer is to have any rival in the markets of the United States. Now his product is cut off, and the American manufacturer has an opportunity which he has been taking advantage of. To retain what he has gained, and to extend his activities, if possible, he has asked Congress for an increase in tariff tax on the dye bases and their derivatives; and latest reports from Washington indicate that he will get what he wants from the Democratic administration, even though, on the general theory involved, the party leaders are by no means favorable to the native producer seeking increased duties. Germany's power to compete in this field has been so exceptional, in its vigor and endurance, that the ways and means committee feels justified in making an exception, so that the new industry which has been coming into being on a somewhat extensive scale since the war began, may get a footing. One factor in favor of this plan now that did not exist formerly is the favor of the textile interests of the United States. On several occasions in the past they have cast their great power against any duty that would prevent them from getting German supplies of dyes. They do not feel so now.—The Christian Science Monitor.

PEOPLES' OPINION

Thinks City Needs More Police

To the Editor:—I was under the impression that the police commissioners had intended asking the city council at their last meeting for an addition to their annual appropriation so that they might appoint two or more additional officers for the police department. As I understand the situation the city government is attempting to cover the city of Portsmouth with fifteen police officers, this number including the marshal, deputy marshal and the night captain. That arrangement leaves but twelve officers for patrol duty, seven at night and five in the day time.

Portsmouth is a city now having about 15,000 population and in addition it has a large floating population, including visitors from the surrounding towns, visitors coming here by auto and men from the army and navy stationed, as well as summer visitors. Twelve police officers; some of them doing traffic duty; does not seem a sufficient force to successfully cover the city.

At this time, when the entire nation is talking preparedness, it might be a good thing if the city council would do a little in this line as protection is the best form of preparedness.

As things are at present every officer on the force, from Marshal Harley down to the last appointed patrolman, has more work than he can successfully do, and a little more expended for more officers might. In time he saved to the citizens in preventing bad losses from law breakers who would be unable to carry out their work if the city was better protected. I would like to go on record as one citizen who is in favor of the city council giving the police commissioners more men and I intend to state this to my representative in the city government. I hope that other citizens will do the same.

CURRENT OPINION

United States Must Be Buffer Nation to Preserve World's Peace.

The United States as a nation is undergoing a rapid evolution, a new awakening, which surprises the inhabitants of this country themselves and which will surprise many other nations. Until the present we have been content with ourselves. We have only touched other nations. The war in Europe has created a realization of new opportunities for this country. We have no desire to conquer the world or any part of it, but we have a duty to serve humanity. Our opportunity is to be a buffer nation. By that I mean a nation that shall stand still, against which the efforts of any other nation or group of nations to oppress or dominate the world shall expend themselves in vain when it comes to questions of justice and universal peace, the great necessities of the hour.

The demand for preparedness is not jingoism. Those who so call it mistake the temper of the people. It is a deliberate demand made by thinking people who have come to the realization that a supreme effort must be put forth to place this nation in the front rank for defensive action.

We are averse to war, but our eyes are opened to the fact that as long as attack is possible we must be prepared, not against any one nation, but against all nations.

Preparedness does not mean militarism in our country. It means intelligent preparation in advance to deal with any eventuality.—By Rabbi Joseph Silverman, Temple Emanuel, New York City.

Of this number twenty-five attended the North church. Two boys were promoted from the Junior to the Senior department of the Sunday school, receiving Bible treasures and one being promoted from the Primary to the Junior department. Received a Bible. One child from this road was baptised. A very good showing for less than a half mile of road.

Appeals for Cemetery Care.

Editor—Why is it that year after year our city fathers neglect our old cemeteries? No attention whatever is given to them and they are fast going to the dogs. Take for instance the Pleasant street cemetery. The main gate is off its hinges and the fence that surrounds it is so far gone that neighbors have had to prop it up. The grass is never cut and boys are allowed to use it as a play ground. The North cemetery where William Whipple is buried, looks like a dump. Surely some attention should be given our dead. Thousands of people visit these places every summer and they should at least be kept clean, which can be done at little expense.

roof

In all these years kept well aloof,
Our love, dear wife, was always proof
'Gainst wrong, and ne'er misdeared.
We've had our little quarrels, too,
Since we have been together,
I've said some things, and so have you,
Which hurt, while in the ether;
But adding all in all, we've led
A happy life since we were wed,
And as we earn our daily bread
The career of life still weather.

The quarter century gone by
Our union has cemented,
For neither, sweetheart, you nor I
Have of our choice repented.
What matter if our hair is gray,
Our vision not so keen, less gay
Our spirits than they were the day
I pled and you consented?

Still hand in hand, like bride and groom
The downward path we're treading,
And wisdom should reduce the bloom
We have for years been shedding;
We're thankful that we, year by year
Have lived together on this sphere
And now can say, my sweetheart dear
This is our silver wedding.

—J. E. MOORE.

THE CHURCH AN ADVERTISER.

An eminent prelate in a recent address in London declared that the Church was the greatest of all advertisers.

As he phrased it: "She has wars she believes without competition and she puts them in the shop window and says: 'Come even you, without money and buy.'"

Like every other concern with a good article to sell the Church is finding the surest way to new customers is through using the advertising columns of the daily newspapers.

Religious advertising is already large in volume and is growing daily.

New Pennsylvania Put Into Commission

The new super-dreadnaught Pennsylvania came to the Norfolk yard Monday from the builders at Newport News and was commissioned in the United States navy, with Captain H. B. Wilson commanding. With her twelve 14-inch rifles, four torpedo tubes and 22 five-inch guns the Pennsylvania is considered by American experts the most powerful warship afloat. She displaces 32,000 tons and made slightly more than 21 knots an hour on her speed trials.

GINGLES' JINGLES

WHO KNOWS?

We lamped his pompous and said, "of fuff that is a bunch. But tell us, do you think this guy will ever pack a punch? He's tall and gawky, and he moves with some wheelbarrow gait; he's never up to schedule; will he always come in late?" In memory's skiff we paddled back and say, "thoro gooth I," for we were surely gawky, tall and clumsy, also shy; we had a dozen hands and feet, for which we had no place, we always qualified to start—but never won the race. We were like him whom we had lamped, a most unsightly rube, and all creation seemed to have us listed as a boob; we got it handed to us in a rough unpleasant way, but fate would not excuse us, just because we were a Jay. We pulled ourselves together, and we took it as it came, we got our slams and jolts, but kept on staying in the game; we're scarred by many failures, as will be our ruben mate, but if he sticks and fights, "who knows" his showing may be Lim X Single.

This Week at St. Louis

This week at St. Louis, President Wilson will be re-nominated by a Democratic convention dominated almost as completely by him as the Progressive convention at Chicago in 1912 was dominated by Col. Roosevelt. The convention meets and will take action with the knowledge that Charles E. Hughes is the Republican candidate, that, in all probability, Col. Roosevelt will be brought into line to support Mr. Hughes and that the battle this year will be a two-party one, to be decided on its merits and not by the accident of a divided anti-Democratic vote.

Nobody of intelligence ignores the fact that the contest will be a desperate one. The President is a far better politician than a majority of his so-called advisers, and he may be trusted to handle the campaign according to his own ideas of expediency. "He has kept us out of war," that will not be the form in which the chief political asset of the President will be put into the platform, but it will be there, nevertheless, and it will be used upon the stump with a somewhat justifiable reliance on the fact that there are more people in this country who believe in peace at any price, plus partial prosperity, than would be willing to admit it.

Since the Republican party elected Abraham Lincoln in 1860 the Democrats has had two Presidents. The first was Grover Cleveland, but he could not obtain his second term until after he had been beaten for re-election and had been a private citizen for four years. Therefore, if Mr. Wilson succeeds himself he will smash another precedent. Can he do it in 1916 in view of the fact that he was elected four years ago solely because the Republican party was virtually destroyed by the defection of Col. Roosevelt and his followers?—The Boston Traveler.

EXCISE TAX FOR MAINE RAILROADS

Atlantic Shore Assessed for $3,422.36; York Harbor and Beach, $696.09.

The state board of tax assessors of Maine on Monday committed the annual commitment of the excise taxes on steam and electric lines of the state.

The total tax assessed against the steam railroads is $3,422.36, an increase of $125,513.20 over the last commitment. The heaviest tax is assessed against the Maine Central railroad company. A tax of $606.09 is assessed against the York Harbor and Beach railroad.

The total amount of the tax assessed against the street railways is $65,708.49. A tax of $3,422.36 is assessed against the Atlantic Shore against the Biddeford and Saco railway and a tax of $1,756.16 road company.

EVENTS OF MANY YEARS AGO OF LOCAL INTEREST

In March, 1851, negotiations were being made for the purchase of land and incorporation of the Portsmouth Gas Co. The city granted permission for laying pipes in the street.

In 1851, at the exhibit at Philadelphia by the Franklin Institute, the Sagamore Co. of this city received a gold medal for its exhibit of sport cotton, then manufactured here. In the same year, Portsmouth dress lawns, a product of our steam mill, found ready sale in the New York market at 13 1/2 cents per yard, an advance of 30 per cent over previous prices.

In 1851 the city advertised for fire engine members at a salary of $5 per year. Dwyer was at the time paying $10 per year.

The city voted to install thirty gas lights, 10 to be in the central streets. A prominent dealer in oysters was selling Tangle oysters at 75c per gallon.

In 1851 the Ward 1 city building for voting was being built, to cost $1015.

In 1851 the "Gunny Blister," sailed by J. C. Grey, was making daily trips between Portsmouth and the Isles of Shoals. The advertisement guaranteed safe conveyance to all who instructed themselves to the care of the skillful captain.

In 1851 the fishing fleet owned by Portsmouth parties brought into this port fish and oil to the value of $60,399.

In 1852, ten ships were launched on our river, one of them built on Elliot Neck by Samuel Housman and his teenage was 650.

Miller and Gray started the publication of the Chronicle in 1852.

In 1852 fireworks were shown for the first time, near the shore of the South pond. This was a few evenings previous to the 4th of July, as an experiment, and proving satisfactory the exhibit on the evening of July 4th was from the south shore of the pond.

Harvard and Yale were holding their annual boat races on Lake Winnepesaukee in 1850.

In 1851, Portsmouth census showed a gain of about 2,000 during the ten years previous.

In 1851, a free evening school was being held at the Cammeroon on Vaughan street. At the first meeting on Dec. 5, 1850, 150 pupils were present and 57 teachers assisted. Pastors of our city, and regular school teachers, served without pay. The school closed on March 28, 1851. The total attendance was 529, and the area from 12 to 40 years. Fifty-seven teachers had volunteered services.

In 1851, George Rayner, well remembered as a builder of noted ships, had completed the "Sea Serpent." It was owned in New York. Mr. Hughes received a gift of $1500 for his faithful work. This was in addition to the contract price and an unusual expression of satisfaction, pleasing alike to the donors and to Mr. Rayner.

On February 18, 1851, the clipper ship Typhoon, of 2,000 tons, was launched from the yard of Peruss & Pettigrew, fully rigged with masts and spars before launching. Capt. Charles H. Salter on the first trip, being spoken 32 hours from port, had sailed 400 miles.

Several Overcome and Firemen Injured in Manchester Blaze.

Manchester, June 13—Thirty people were assisted from smoke-filled tenements, one woman was partially over come and three firemen were injured in a stubborn basement fire that caused a loss of between $15,000 and $20,000 in the four-story brick Ready block, 21-23 Pearl street last night. The main store of the McQuestion and Lewis, grocers is in this block and they will be the principal losers.

The fire was discovered at 8:40 o'clock by Officer William L. Looney and a tenant of the block. The latter pulled in the alarm from box 8, corner of Etna and Hollis streets, beating the officer to it by about one second.

Mrs. Peter Chandonnet, who lived with her husband on the third floor, had retired. So sudden was the rush of smoke up hallways that the exits were almost impassable. Dressing as hastily as she could she inhaled enough smoke to be rendered semi-conscious. She was carried to Leblanc's drug store by a policeman where she was revived.

Among the firemen injured by falling glass during various stages of the fight was Oscar P. Stone who is the most severely hurt. A deep gash was torn in the back of his left hand, a vein being cut by the glass. He was attended at Leblanc's drug store by Archie Miller of the chemical and L. Charles Brown of the North End.

Clouds of thick, choking smoke were pouring from basement windows to the store and up through the three upper floors of the building when the apparatus arrived. Lines were laid on both the Pearl street side and on North Church street and water was poured into the cellar for two hours. Particular concern was felt for the members of the 21 families who occupy tenements above the McQuestion and Lewis stores which takes up the entire street floor. Ladders were raised on the Pearl street side and scores of men were sent into the block to rescue it for any possible victims of the descending smoke. Among the police officers who materially aided in the rescue work were Inspectors Mohr and Healey, Sergeant Bourke and Officers Looney and Scannell.

Among the tenants were many children and several of these suffered badly from smoke and had to be carried out. Several of the older occupants had retired, and in these instances they needed the assistance that was so readily and effectively given by a squad of police, firemen and several citizens. Great puffs of smoke went up the hall stairs in front and back, and this made the rescue work especially difficult.

Hughes States His Attitude as
That of "Undiluted Americanism."

New York, June 13—"My attitude is undiluted Americanism." That is the individual platform upon which Charles B. Hughes will run for President. The Republican nominee in a brief statement this afternoon outlined his views. "My attitude as I have already stated is one of undiluted Americanism," said Mr. Hughes. "Anyone who supports me is supporting an out and out American and nothing else. I stated my position very clearly in my telegram to the National convention in Chicago."

Honorary Presidents—His Eminence James Cardinal Gibbons, His Eminence John Cardinal Farley, His Eminence William Cardinal O'Connell.

President—Thomas Addis Emmet.

Secretary—John D. Moore, 28 Cortlandt street.

Treasurer—Thomas Hughes Kelly, 5 Beekman street.

Chairman Executive Committee—George J. Gillespie.

New York, May 28, 1916.

Dear Friend—At a meeting of representative Irishmen and women at the Murray Hill Hotel on Saturday evening, May 20th last, there was inaugurated a nation-wide movement for the raising of a fund to relieve the great distress now prevalent in Ireland. It was unanimously voted to invite every Irish society and every individual Irishman in the United States to participate in it. It was deemed best to concentrate all efforts into one nationwide demonstration and Saturday, June 16th was designated as "Irish Relief Day."

A great part of the City of Dublin is in ruins as a result of the bombardment, and the people are in dire distress. Dublin has never been deaf to appeals for charitable aid, no matter from what quarter of the world they have come. Ireland has especial claims on this country because of the great services rendered by her sons and daughters in assisting in the establishment of this Republic and in contributing so much to our national progress.

You are invited and earnestly requested to co-operate with the committee appointed in our city to solicit aid and give them your hearty support.

The distribution of the fund will be in charge of special representatives sent from the United States for the purpose, so that every contributor can be assured that any money contributed will reach the end for which it has been given.

Yours very truly,
JOHN D. MOORE, Secretary.

SET FIRE TO CLOTHING

Manchester Young Woman
Burned to Death Early
Monday Morning.

Manchester, June 13—Turned from head to foot, the body of Mary Lynch, a young woman living with her mother and sister, at 235 Ash street, was found early yesterday lying in a closet in her apartment. The discovery was made at about 9:30 o'clock and investigations of the mysterious cause of the tragedy lead to the belief that the case was one of suicide.

Suffering greatly since a serious operation in the spring, Miss Lynch's mind is believed to have become unbalanced. That she deliberately poured oil over her clothing and ignited it with the intention of taking her life is the belief of Medical Examiner Maurice Watson who was called in to the case.

She was seen by neighbors and friends to enter the door to her home. Half an hour later her dead body was discovered on the floor of a closet of the upper apartment by Fred Robinson who had seen her enter the house but a few minutes before and who was the first to discover smoke issuing from the windows of the apartment where the unfortunate young woman died.

Her body when found lay upon the floor partly in and partly out of the closet. It was burned to a crisp and to such an extent that when it was moved the clothing which had covered it fell off in charred shreds.

RUSSIAN OFFENSE AGAIN THREATENS CZERNOWITZ

London, June 12.—Czernowitz, capital of the Austrian province of Bukovina, which the Russian again threaten, has changed hands several times during the war. The place is Austria's easternmost city and is 429 miles east of Vienna and 161 miles southeast of Lemberg by rail, on the right bank of the River Pruth. It is less than twenty-five miles from the Roumanian border and its occupation would remove the danger of pressure on Roumania by the presence of Teutonic forces at its boundary. The Russian drive has now taken on such importance that its political effect may become of first importance at any moment. Today's news gives no indication that the drive is checked anywhere, even in the slightest degree, the Austrian bulletin merely announcing that "overwhelming numbers" were accountable for Austro-Hungarian defeats. The German General Staff, in alarm, have probably recalled Mackensen from Macedonia, but he can hardly arrive in time to ward off a further great disaster, even if he could force strength into the discouraged Austro-Hungarian troops. Observers abroad are beginning to see another possibility on the cards, which, if it materializes, would give the Allies every chance of crumbling up for good and all the

"flipping off" the Germans of the departure of Kitchener for Russia, resulting in the war lord's death.

Petrograd, June 12.—Russian troops yesterday approached the outskirts of Czernowitz, the capital of Bukovina, the War Office announced today.

Austrian Front Collapses

Continuing their offensive movement in Volhynia and Galicia, Russian troops Saturday took prisoners 100 officers and 35,000 men, says the official statement issued here. The Russians also captured thirty guns and an enormous quantity of booty. The army of General Tschilsky alone, operating in the direction of Czernowitz, Bukovina, the statement adds, overwhelmed the Austro-Hungarians and took 18,000 prisoners. Since the present offensive was started a week ago today the Russians have taken about 105,000 prisoners.

The similarity between General Brusiloff's advance in the past week and the Russian drive against the Austrians at the beginning of the war is generally commented upon here. One difference, however, is pointed out—that General Brusiloff's initial blow has been considerably more effective and the retreat of the Austrians before it more precipitate than during the initial events of 1914. The net result of the week's operations has surpassed the expectations of the most ardent believers in the southern leader's ability. With more than 100,000 prisoners and immense booty, and with the communication between the Austrian armies around Czartorysk and Radolowka and those in the neighborhood of Czernowitz seriously threatened, there is immense rejoicing among the military and civilian population.

The military authorities regard the piercing of the Austrian line along the Stripa as perhaps of greater importance than breaking through at Lutsk. Assuming that the Austrians, even with the aid of the Germans, are made to push the Russians back here, it will mean that the Austrians themselves must fall back along the whole line northward, and quickly. In order to maintain a formidable front it is pointed out that an orderly retreat with such gigantic armies is an extremely difficult task. Once they are on the move, and with the Russians pounding at their rear, it is contended the great drive of 1914 through Poland and Galicia is likely to be repeated.

Immense Quantity of Booty

The text of the Russian official statement follows:

"Our offensive in Volhynia, Galicia, and Bukovina obtained fresh successes Saturday. The enemy armies continue to suffer enormous losses in prisoners alone.

"The fierce attacks of our troops are throwing into our hands thousands upon thousands of prisoners and booty of all kinds, the exact estimation of which is as yet impossible.

"For instance, in a single section on the enemy front we captured twenty-one searchlights, two conveyors, twenty-nine field kitchens, forty-seven trains of machine guns, twelve thousand pounds of barbed wire (a pound is equivalent to thirty-six pounds), one thousand concrete planks, seven million cubes of concrete, ten thousand pounds of coal, enormous depots of ammunition and quantities of arms and other materials. In another section we captured thirty thousand rifle cartridges, three hundred boxes of machine gun cartridges, two hundred boxes of hand grenades, one thousand usable rifles, four machine guns, two large fenders and a Norton portable pump for the extraction of drinking water. The capture of such enormous war materials prepared by the enemy for various operations affords proof of how opportunity was our comp against the enemy. During yesterday's fighting we took as prisoners one general, 45 officers and 35,100 soldiers. We also captured thirty guns, thirteen machine guns and five bomb throwers. This makes the total trophies in recent operations, one general, 1619 officers and more than 100,000 soldiers, and 124 guns, 150 machine guns and fifty-eight bomb throwers."

On Austrians' Heels

"Among the various episodes may be noted the plucky struggle of our young formations near Rofelche, on the Stry near Lutsk. Here the Germans attempted to render assistance to the Austrians, but by our infantry attack, delivered under cover of heavy artillery, they were dislodged from the Several other important matters were discussed at the meeting, among them the action of the board in authorizing the president, Frederick M. Sise, to appoint a committee of three to meet with the officers of the Portsmouth-Kittery Bridge Corporation and the Boston & Maine Railroad, to discuss matters which will eventually lead to definite action in the freeing of the bridge as a toll bridge. This committee, which will be appointed by Mr. Sise within a few days, will confer with the officers of the bridge and learn from them what amount of money will be required to acquire the lease of the bridge; after which the proposition will be taken up with the county commissioners of York and Rockingham counties and will later be placed before the voters if necessary. The entire meeting was one which points to much good for the city and was one of the most enthusiastic held in the history of the board.

The meeting was called to order by President Sise with a large attendance and after routine business and the adoption of a resolution by the board to assist in the movement of employees granting leave of absence to their employees who were members of the National Guard to be absent on military duty without loss of pay. The resolution was passed in answer to a communication addressed to the board from Captain Clarence P. Bodwell, captain of the 1st company, C. A. C. N. H. N. G. Following this action the matter of the bridge proposition was introduced by Mr. Sise.

Mr. Sise explained that the proposition was suggested at the annual meeting last week that the Boston and Maine Railroad might entertain from York county, Me., and Rockingham county, N. H., a proposition similar to that now being worked out in detail by New Hampshire and Vermont in the matter of the toll bridge between Hanover, N. H., and Wells River, Vt. These towns are working toward the perfection of a plan which will allow them to hire the bridge at a rate which will cover the upkeep, plus a sum to cover the invested capital. He stated that he believed the idea a good one and in answer to question said that he believed that the Portsmouth-Kittery Bridge was capitalized for $100,000, that about $15,000 was collected annually from tolls and that it was probable that about 30 per cent of this sum was required for the upkeep. On motion offered by Mr. Wood a resolution authorizing the president to appoint a committee of three to confer with the officials, was passed.

Mr. Sise then stated the business of the meeting, the discussion of the question of the advisability of raising the sum of $30,000 for the building of a factory which will be used by a firm seeking a location here. Mr. Sise explained that the Portsmouth Building Association was formed some three years ago and was simply a board of trustees with certain powers to hold sums of money subscribed to be used in the building up of a substantial commercial and manufacturing movement in the city. He read a large part of the rules and the declaration of trust of this association, the board of trustees all being members of the board of trade. He was followed by John K. Bates, R. Clyde Margeson, Edward Seybold, Fred A. Gray, William E. Marvin, all members of this board of trustees, and several other speakers including Mr. P. Alkon, P. W. Hartford, Amos O. Benfield, Ralph W. Junkins, Gustave Peyer, and others, all speaking in the strongest terms as being heartily in sympathy with the movement and giving assurance to the trustees of financial assistance, in addition to working to interest others in the movement.

Mr. Bates, treasurer of the board of trustees, stated that at the formation of the Portsmouth Building Association in 1913, a sum of $10,000 or more had been subscribed but had never been collected as the needs for a factory had not presented itself. It was the opinion of the meeting that under the present circumstances, as there are now two firms seeking locations here and would use a standard factory, that the present time was the right time to begin action. At the end of the meeting two important resolutions were passed. The first, on motion of Mr. Alkon, resolved that the money subscribed should be paid to the treasurer at once; and the second, introduced by Mr. Peyer, put the board on record as heartily endorsing the action of the Building Association pledging financial support, urging members of the board to make subscriptions and promising that the board members pledged themselves to undertake the work of interesting other citizens of the city, not members of the board, into making subscriptions.

The action was passed only after the question had been thoroughly discussed and the need for such action made perfectly clear. Mr. Marvin, one of the prime movers in the formation of the building association three years ago, spoke at great length on the question. He stated that in other cities, among them Saco, Me., and Haverhill and Newburyport, Mass., this idea had

INDIANA PLANS NEW PARK SYSTEM

Indianapolis, Ind., June 12.—As an outgrowth of the celebrations being held throughout the state in honor of Indiana's entrance into the union in 1816, a spontaneous movement for the conservation of many of the beauty spots of the state by a system of parks, is sweeping the Hoosier state.

A voluntary state park committee, entirely unofficial in its actions except for the endorsement of Governor Samuel Ralston, is seeking subscriptions preparatory to inducing the 1917 legislature to enact a state park law.

With about $25,000 pledged, the committee first attempted to buy Turkey Run, a rugged spot in Western Indiana, which is widely known for its big trees, high bluffs and shady delts. The attempt of the committee was defeated by lumbermen, who outbid the committee to secure some valuable walnut trees.

The second attempt resulted successfully the committee purchasing a large tract of land in Owen county, containing the McCormick creek canyon, for $5,200. Already residents of that county are beginning to build roads to attract automobile tourists. As the result of the purchase of one of the large sand dunes along Lake Michigan by Chicago men, people of Northern Indiana with the support of many Chicago persons, are demanding that the remaining dunes be kept and incorporated in the proposed state park system. The sand dune region has been a favorite haunt of scientists for years, seeking rare specimens of faunal life.

not only been found of benefit to the city in getting new industries but that the investments had been paying propositions as the sums expended in the building of the factories had been returned at the end of a certain period and had been paying a fair return during the time the money had been tied up in the buildings. In this manner, it was explained, the original sum subscribed is returned to the trustees and is ready for reinvestment.

Two reputable manufacturing companies, engaged in making shoes, have already approached officers of the board of trustees and have practically assured them that they will locate here provided satisfactory sites are secured. These firms will take the buildings, paying a rental which will give a fair return on the invested capital and at the same time a certain amount will be paid on the building so that at the end of ten years the building will be the property of the manufacturing firm and the entire sum ready for use again. This idea practically makes the firm and the citizens of Portsmouth interested in the association partners in the building.

From the statements made by the several speakers the building, when erected, will be a standard factory building which model is now being adopted as serviceable in any manufacturing business. It was stated that for the $30,000 a modern factory of three or four stories, 200 feet by 40 feet; lighted and heated, could be built. The idea used in Toledo, Ohio, of building "unit factories" was also introduced by Mr. Peyer. He explained this type was very satisfactory in the west and that the building might be used by two or more concerns, each taking a separate part, as much as their business required.

From the amount of enthusiasm displayed at the meeting and from the optimistic tone of each of the speakers, the Portsmouth Board of Trade is ready and willing to work in the interests of advancing Portsmouth to the position she rightfully should have. Manufacturers are looking for new sites and cities for their industries and if hard work and enterprise on the part of the members of the Portsmouth organization will bring them here, they are going to get them.

At the close of the meeting Mr. Seybold, secretary of the board, was the host at a lunch, served under the direction of Manager Dudley of the hotel.

TWO JAPANESE IN BORDER RAID

WANTED TO HANG TEXAS COW
BOY—BOTH ARE CAPTURED
LATER BY CARRANZA
TROOPS.

Laredo, Tex., June 12.—George Conover, an American cowboy, who, with Arthur Meyers, was captured yesterday by the Mexican bandits that raided the T. A. Coleman ranch at San Samuel, arrived in Laredo today, after a 30-mile trip on foot.

Conover said the band which sought to drive 50 head of horses across the border was composed of five Mexicans and two Japanese. The Japanese, he said, were later captured by de facto government troops. Conover said he was treated well by the Mexicans, but the two Japanese wanted to hang him. The bandits left Conover and Meyers at a secluded place and told the Americans to await their return. The Americans fled, hiding in the brush when the Mexicans came back to look for them.

A number of armed citizens and State rangers were dispatched to Webb, Texas, north of here today, when it was reported that railroad bridges were being burned. The report was found groundless, but the rangers took into custody two Mexicans supposed to have been connected with the band participating in the Coleman ranch raid.

NEW LIGHT ON SOUTH AMERICAN TARIFFS.

Washington, D. C., June 12.—There is no greater obstacle to trade between nations than complicated and varying tariff systems. South American tariffs with their fines and penalties are among the most complex. The American exporter has never understood them, and thousands of inquiries on this score have led the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce, to prepare a report that covers exhaustively all the obscure points. It is the first complete report on the subject that has ever been made and is one of the most important of the recent attempts to promote a better understanding with South American countries and to increase our trade with them.

For the important task of making this report Secretary Hedfield selected Dr. Frank R. Rutter, assistant chief of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, and formerly chief of the Tariff Division of that Bureau. For a great many years Dr. Rutter has devoted himself almost exclusively to foreign tariffs and has paid especial attention to the involved tariff systems of South America. Before undertaking the actual writing of the new report he visited the capitals and principal ports in South America and studied carefully the actual administration of tariff laws. American diplomatic and consular officers also contributed valuable reports. The completed report is not merely a compilation of tariff schedules. It is concerned primarily with the actual application of the tariff laws, with the underlying sentiment expressed in the laws, and with the spirit in which such laws are administered.

The report goes into the matter of surtaxes in great detail. It is a subject that has always bothered the American exporter. There are no surtaxes at home and he doesn't understand the necessity for them in South America. He does not get the South American point of view at all. He does not always stop to think that a thing may be very unpleasant and yet very necessary. When money is wanted for some new project, an added tax on imports is the normal recourse in a number of South American countries. In this country, in such a case, we might attempt to revise the existing tariff upwards, but in some South American countries a part of the regular import duties has been assigned to foreign holders of Government securities. Besides, a general tariff revision is as difficult to obtain in South America as elsewhere. When a new public improvement is needed, the quickest and easiest way to raise the money is to negotiate a loan guaranteed by the levy of a special duty or surtax. This is the history of practically all surtaxes. Either the customs revenue is found inadequate and a surtax is added, or some special expenditure is contemplated and resort is had to a surtax, the proceeds of which are allocated exclusively to that object.

The imposition of penalties is the point in which South American customs practice comes closest to the American exporter and it is a point which has received extended consideration in the report. There are fines for delay in presenting documents, fines for failure to observe the formalities laid down by the regulations, for smuggling, for falsification of documents, and for various other acts of omission or commission on the part of the importer, which do not, however, directly affect the foreign exporter. American exporters are much more concerned with penalties imposed for failure to observe the consular regulations or for incorrect statements in the consular invoice or the commercial invoice that lead the importer into declarations on his document that are deemed false and sometimes lead to heavy fines. In such cases the importer naturally presents a claim against the American exporter for a refund of his loss. Unfortunately he frequently fails to make clear just what the trouble was and the American remains just as much in the dark as ever. The report goes so fully into the subject of fines and the reasons underlying them that a careful study of it will clear up many obscure points for our exporters.

In most South American countries the appraiser, or other customs official receives or shares in the proceeds from fines imposed. The purpose, obviously, is to stimulate the zeal of the employees in requiring an exact performance of the customs requirements. In practice the system seems to tend to penalizing importers for unintentional violations of the regulations. In Argentina the appraiser who has recommended a fine is recognized as the defendant if the importer makes a protest, and if the protest is sustained may appeal to the Ministry of Finance. In Chile and Peru a bonus to all employees has been substituted for a share in the fines. In Bolivia there is a combination of the fine-sharing system and the bonus system.

The customs requirements as a rule are strict and must be followed precisely. They are based, in part, upon preliminary declarations of the foreign exporter, as registered in the consular invoice. All South American countries, except Argentina, Uruguay, and Paraguay, demand the presentation of invoices, viewed by a consular officer, before goods may be entered. In place of the consular invoice, Argentina and Paraguay accept a certificate of origin. In actual practice, however, a consular invoice usually accompanies shipments to Paraguay, and it is required by Uruguayan law in case of transshipments to Montevideo. In the invoice for shipments to Paraguay a declaration of the country of origin is made, and this is accepted as compliance with the requirement of a certificate of origin. In shipments to Argentina the certificate of origin usually omits the value of the goods, the declaration being confined to a description of the kind of merchandise and a statement of the countries where produced.

All other countries of South America are very strict in insisting upon the consular invoice, even those countries which have a tariff of specific duties and which, therefore, do not base the duties on the value of the goods. Colombia and Venezuela particularly require on the consular invoice all the information that must be shown on the entry or manifest.

For the last ten years there has been a demand for tariff revision in practically all South American countries. Chile has just adopted a new tariff after seven years of preparation; Colombia enacted a new tariff in 1913 after three years' study; Venezuela last year published a new tariff incorporating all the changes and classifications to date; and Brazil and Ecuador have their annual revision. In Brazil a tariff bill prepared by a special commission after years of investigation was introduced in Congress in 1913; later budget laws contain provisions for further study of a new tariff. Bolivia has had a commission working on a new specific tariff for several years. A new law is in course of preparation by the Ministry of Finance of Ecuador. Paraguay has had a commission of one investigating the subject. Argentina alone seems content with the valuation tariff system, but the Government has urged the designation of a permanent tariff commission, empowered to bring official valuation into line with market prices and by constant study to modify the official valuations as market prices change.

TANK STEAMER CONSTRUCTION IS INCREASING

New York, June 12.—American shipyards at present are working on new tank steamers of an aggregate tonnage of more than 450,000. At no time in many years has tank steamer construction been carried on at so active a pace as now, all leading companies aggressively adding to their fleets.

Oil men regard construction program of the big companies as a reliable indication that leading interests believe there is an unusual degree of prosperity ahead of the petroleum industry for the next several years; otherwise building of tankers under present high rates of boat construction would be foregone.

The large increase in tank steamer capacity also reflects necessity of active development of foreign oil lands, notably Mexico, because of diminishing supplies in United States. Along with this is the opening up of markets in other countries by refiners of the United States.

The shortage of tank steamers at present is due partly to commandeering by the British government of 62 of Standard Oil Co.'s fleet, which were under the British flag.

Standard Oil Co. naturally is the most aggressive builder of new vessels. It has placed contracts for more than 20 tankers since the British government commandeered its boats. Standard Oil Co., New Jersey, placed an order for two tank steamers with the Newport News Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co., in April. The Jersey company alone of the Standard group has under construction 15 vessels. It recently launched two tankers, the H. H. Rogers and the Charles Pratt.

Petroleum Transport Co., owned by the Doheny interests through the Pan-American Petroleum & Transport Co., has just purchased two additional tank steamers, making the total fleet owned and under charter, when these under contract are delivered, 23 vessels. These boats include some of the largest tank steamers in service. They are used almost entirely for the carrying of oil from the company's Mexican oil fields.

The Sun Oil Co., through its subsidiary, Sun Shipbuilding Co., with yards at Chester, Pa., is working on construction of a fleet of 18 tankers, each 10,000 tons rating.

The Texas Co. is especially active in adding to the capacity of its fleet. It recently took over the Sewall shipyards in Maine, and it is understood that the facilities in that yard will be largely increased by the Texas Co., in order to turn out its ships more expeditiously.

HORSE ON A WILD RAMPAGE

Jumps a Fence and Does Circus Stunts on Market Street.

A horse attached to the wagon of Philip Levine, a junk dealer, went on a wild rampage on Monday afternoon and did all kinds of circus stunts before he stopped. He started on Richards avenue, turned into Middle street then into Court and Market streets. The fact that Mark street has no outlet at the end did not stop the horse in his mad flight. He knocked down a fence at the end of the street where he cleared himself from the wagon and got into the garden at the residence of Dr. T. W. Luce. Here he circled among the trees and flower beds with part of the harness and whiffletree hanging to him.

His next wild move was his escape from the yard. He ran to the corner of the enclosure at the corner of Mark and Court streets, jumped the fence onto the sidewalk and fell. The fall stunned him for a while but he quickly recovered, got on his feet and sped up again down Court street where some one held him up.

The junk was scattered in all directions along the highway. The horse was cut and bruised considerably and the wagon was badly wrecked.

Kittory. He is a successful lawyer there and is making good.

Benjamin P. George, another former New Hampshire boy assisted in entertaining the boys of the old Granite State.

NEW MEMBER FOR THE POLICE BOARD

Name of H. O. Prime Mentioned to Succeed Frank E. Leavitt.

The term of Frank E. Leavitt, chairman of the board of police commissioners will expire July 1, 1916. Mr. Leavitt was elected as a Progressive and it is understood that he does not wish a reappointment although many of the citizens are hoping he will stand. If he insists on declining an appointment, a Republican will be appointed. Some Democratic candidates names are mentioned to succeed Mr. Leavitt, but party leaders will not agree on any of them, so it is said. The most prominent citizen favored by the Republicans is Herbert O. Prime. Mr. Prime has declined the position in the past but the leaders are in hopes that he may now consent to an appointment by the governor and council and would not doubt fill the bill in every respect.

WILL FEAST ON WEDNESDAY NIGHT

L. B. A. C. to Have Banquet and Entertainment at U. V. U. Hall.

The second annual banquet of the L. B. A. C. will be held at U. V. U. hall Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. The committee in charge have prepared quite a program of entertainment for the occasion and the members predict a joyous evening at the festive board. Part of the musical performance recently given by the association will be repeated during the evening.

LOCAL DASHES

Hang out the flag tomorrow. With the departure of so many ships things look quiet at the busy yard docks.

Portsmouth will be represented at the board of trade banquet at Hampton Beach on Friday evening.

Several from this city attended the dance given at the Lancaster, York Harbor, on Monday evening. Music was furnished for the same by Chauncey B. Hoyt, John Part and Ronce Howe.

The pleasant weather on Tuesday imposed new life in every one and there was a decided change from the air of gloom that has been over the city during the rainy days of late.

Frank W. Randall and Cilly Soli-ottor Jere Waldron will attend the Theta Chi banquet at New Hampshire college, Durham, on Tuesday evening.

MAYOR LADD VETOES SMART RESOLUTION

Says Money Can Be Spent at Better Advantage.

It is understood that Mayor Ladd has placed his veto on the following resolution, offered by Councilman Smart of Ward 4, relative to repairs of the South ward room:

"That the committee on public buildings and places be instructed to ask for bids for repairing the building known as the South Ward Room, and that said committee be given power to award contract for same, and that all work shall be done under supervision of this committee."

The resolution was passed by the council on June 8 and the mayor gives as his reasons for not approving the financial condition of the city and says the money can be used to better advantage. No stated amount was specified in the resolution. The building at present is used only on election days by the voters of the ward.

WILL HANG SIGN.

The board of public works will put the one-way street signs in place on Wednesday.

A dog owned by a woman on Vaughan street was killed on the Boston and Maine crossing this morning by an auto, the driver of which appeared to think the animal was of no consideration and kept right on moving. Another dog was struck near the Vaughan street garage on Monday afternoon and had to be shot by Officer Anderson to end its suffering.
